

North Carolina Fisheries

Color the "Carolina Sounder"

This is a picture of a sculpture of a commercial fisherman pulling in his nets. It was designed and built out of bronze by artist Douglas Alvord. It was dedicated on the waterfront at Morehead City in 1998 to honor our commercial fishermen. On its base there is an inscription which reads:

"To those whose lives are dedicated to the timeless traditions of the sea, whose labors through fair weather and foul help feed the world, and whose families in generations past and future represent a legacy of faith and honor. May God's grace be so with all fisherman who go forth on our bountiful waters."
