Save the date: Got to Be NC Festival runs May 20-22

The Got to Be NC Festival returns to the State Fairgrounds in Raleigh May 20-22, highlighting agriculture and agribusiness, the state's No. 1 industry.

This family-friendly event proudly showcases the best of North Carolina at the Got to Be NC Food, Wine & Beer Home-grown Fare, presented by Lowes Foods. Also, there will be plenty of kids' activities, lumberjack shows, tractor displays, food, carnival rides and a barbecue cooking contest fundraiser.

If you love antique tractors and farm equipment, you won't have any problem finding them in all colors and sizes. Restored examples, along with rare tractors are on display each day, with many participating in the daily tractor parade at 1 p.m.

Festival admission is free, with pay-as-you-go rides and food, and $3 admission for the food, wine and beer expo. Gates open Friday from noon to 10 p.m., Saturday, 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sunday 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.

To find out more about the festival, go to <http://gottobenc-festival.com/>.

Caution urged with spring debris burning

The N.C. Forest Service is urging residents across the state to think safety and exercise caution during the spring fire season, which typically lasts from March to May.

During the spring fire season, people do a lot of yard work that often includes burning leaves and yard debris. There are many factors to consider before doing any burning.

"If you're thinking about burning debris, contact your county forest ranger first," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "The forest ranger can offer technical advice and explain the best options to help maximize safety for people, property and the forest."

For people who choose to burn debris, the NCFS urges them to adhere to the following tips to protect property and prevent wildfires:

- Consider alternatives to burning. Some yard debris, such as leaves and grass, may be more valuable if composted.
- Check with your county fire marshal's office for local laws on burning debris. Some communities allow burning only during specified hours; others forbid it entirely.
- Make sure you have an approved burning permit, which can be obtained at any NCFS office, county-approved burning permit agent, or online at <http://ncforestservice.gov>.

- Check the weather. Don't burn if conditions are dry or windy.
- Only burn natural vegetation from your property. Burning household trash or any other man-made materials is illegal. Trash should be hauled away to a convenience center.
- Plan burning for the late afternoon when conditions are typically less windy and more humid.
- If you must burn, be prepared. Use a shovel or hoe to clear a perimeter around the area where you plan to burn.
- Keep fire tools ready. To control the fire, you will need a hose, bucket, a steel rake and a shovel for tossing dirt on the - fire.

  - Never use flammable liquids such as kerosene, gasoline or diesel fuel to speed burning.
  - Stay with your fire until it is completely out. In North Carolina, human carelessness leads to more wildfires than any other cause. In fact, debris burning is the No. 1 cause of wildfires in the state.
  - These same tips hold true for campfires and barbecues, too. Douse burning charcoal briquettes or campfire thoroughly with water. When the coals are soaked, stir them and soak them again. Be sure they are out cold and carefully

PayNow link makes it easier to pay for agronomic services

Consumers are pretty accustomed to loading up their online retail shopping carts, hitting the pay button and simply waiting for their merchandise to arrive in a few days. Online shopping is convenient, and it doesn't involve waiting in line or finding a parking space.

To help customers easily pay for services, the Agronomic Services Division recently rolled out a new PayNow feature on its PALS website, which lets customers pay by credit card and get instant access to their test results.

PALS stands for Public Access Laboratory-information-management System, a website where Agronomic customers can now pay their testing fees online using a new PayNow feature on the Agronomic Services Division website.

farmers, homeowners and crop advisers can check on results of tests of soil, plant tissue, waste, solution, soil-less media and nematode assays.

Before the PayNow feature was added, customers would have to mail a check to the division to cover testing fees. Regular customers could create an escrow account for fees to be drawn against, but the process wasn't as quick and easy.

Since the feature's soft launch in mid-January, clients have found their way to the feature, without any real promotion of it.

"I've been pleased with the response so far," said Colleen Hudak-Wise, director of the Agronomic Services Division.

From the tractor

by Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler

Commissioner Troxler

In late March, I was pleased to help N.C. A&T State University recognize Don and Alease Williams of Sampson County as the 2016 Small Farmers of the Year. This year marked the 30th anniversary of Small Farms Week, which highlights the important contributions of small farms across this state.

The Williamses' farm produces free-range pasture pork from farrow to finish using heritage breeds Hampshire and Chester White.

According to the 2012 Census of Agriculture, we have around 50,000 farms in the state. Of that, 82 percent of them are 180 acres or less in size.

The economic impact of these businesses is anything but small, especially in our rural communities where farm dollars support ag supply stores, trucking operations and other community businesses and government.

North Carolina's agriculture and agribusiness industry is $76 billion strong, leading our economy and creating jobs in areas where big industry doesn't exist. This industry has been the foundation of our state and has helped build some of our biggest cities. I cannot begin to imagine what North Carolina would be without agriculture and agribusiness.

And we are working hard to support this industry and position it for future growth. I am confident that agriculture and agribusiness will be a $100 billion industry moving forward.

Some people may look at agriculture as an industry of the past, but it is anything but that. In fact, with a growing global population that will need to eat, we are going to need each and every farm we can get to keep up with demand.

That represents a tremendous opportunity. We are fortunate in North Carolina to have many farmers such as the Williamses, who understand what it takes to produce food. They are good at it and we can all be thankful for that. Their success means we have a locally grown safe, affordable and abundant supply of food choices.

As we head into the growing season, I encourage you to support your local farmers whenever possible. Look for local products in your grocery stores, at restaurants and at farmers markets and roadside stands. Your support helps boost our economy and keep agriculture strong in this state.

And thank you to those who toil to provide us with safe wholesome foods.

New vet lab system director named

Dr. James Trybus has been named director of the North Carolina Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory System. Trybus has been interim director since October.

Trybus will oversee the 90-employee Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory System, which includes Rollins Animal Disease Diagnostic Laboratory in Raleigh and branch laboratories in Monroe, Arden and Elkin.

"I am pleased to name Dr. Trybus as the director of our veterinary lab system," said N.C. Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "I am confident that he will lead the labs forward and continue to serve both the livestock and poultry industries and companion animal needs of our state through accurate and timely laboratory services."

Trybus received his undergraduate degree from Old Dominion University and his Doctor of Veterinary Medicine from Virginia-Maryland College of Veterinary Medicine. He completed a veterinary pathology residency at Wake Forest University School of Medicine and he is board certified by the American College of Veterinary Pathologists. He is a member of American Association of Veterinary Laboratory Diagnosticians. From 2007-2013, Trybus was employed by Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory as a veterinary pathologist, and in 2009 he was named the head of diagnostic pathology. He returned to North Carolina in June 2013 to assume responsibilities of pathology services coordinator at Rollins.

The NCVDLs was established in 1947 to assist veterinarians and producers in diagnosing diseases of livestock and poultry. Rollins Laboratory is part of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Animal Health Laboratory Network with the ability to perform rapid molecular diagnostic tests for endemic animal diseases, as well as targeted surveillance and response testing for foreign animal diseases.

Dairy investigated over raw milk concerns

The N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services last month temporarily suspended the Grade A dairy permit of Crawford's Dairy in Chapel Hill for failing to comply with state standards. The permit was re-instated after the dairy complied with a series of requirements.

The department began investigating the farm after two N.C. residents were diagnosed with campylobacteriosis, a bacterial infection that can come from consuming contaminated unpasteurized, or raw, milk. Both residents had consumed raw milk purchased from Crawford's Dairy.

"The sale of raw milk for human consumption is illegal in North Carolina," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "Consumption of unpasteurized dairy products may cause serious illness, and anyone who has purchased raw milk or other dairy products from Crawford's Dairy is urged not to consume them."

In addition to selling raw

- Burning agriculture residue and forestland litter: In addition to the guidelines above, a fire line should be plowed around the area to be burned. Large fields should milk, the dairy farm was producing yogurt, cream, butter and buttermilk in an unlicensed facility. The farm's Grade A permit allows it to sell milk to a processor.

Raw milk is unpasteurized milk from animals such as cows, sheep and goats. Raw milk may contain a wide variety of harmful bacteria – including Campylobacter, Salmonella, E. coli O157:H7, Listeria and Brucella – that may cause illness and possibly death. The most common symptoms are vomiting, diarrhea, abdominal pain, fever, headache and body ache. The harmful bacteria in raw milk can be especially dangerous for pregnant women, the elderly, infants, young children and people with weakened immune systems.

Pasteurization, which involves heating food to specific temperature for a definite length of time, and then cooling it immediately, slows microbial growth in food. It is a reliable method for eliminating harmful bacteria from milk, and is the only method used in the U.S.

NCDA&CS announces structural pest control settlements

The N.C. Structural Pest Control Committee recently approved settlement agreements for cases in Forsyth, Lincoln, Mecklenburg and Moore counties.

Following are the agreements:

Gary W. Elliott, owner of Gary W. Elliott Construction in Winston-Salem, agreed to pay $1,500 for performing structural pest control work without a license when he treated a property for powderpost beetles.

Richard D. Simmons, a structural pest control license holder with House Master in Denver, agreed to pay $700 for altering a wood-destroying-insect report by adding three paragraphs to a report done by an employee operating under his license. Structural pest control law states that the reports cannot be altered in any way.

Preston P. Sandlin, a structural pest control license holder with Home Inspection Carolina in Charlotte, agreed to pay $2,000 for inaccurate and incomplete wood-destroying insect reports and failing to supervise work done under his license. Most notably, a report from Home Inspection Carolina failed to note evidence of termites and of past termite treatments done to a property.

Robby Dee Cooke, an employee of Aberdeen Exterminating, agreed to pay $1,200 for using a pesticide in a manner inconsistent with its labeling. Cooke mistakenly sprayed grape vines on an adjacent property when making a mosquito control application. The label for the product states not to apply to edible growing crops or stored raw agricultural commodities used for food or feed.

In a related settlement, James A. Parker, a registered structural pest control license holder for Aberdeen Exterminating, agreed to pay $600 for failure to supervise structural control work being done under his license. Cooke was an applicator performing work under Parker's license.

Poultry & Supplies For Sale

Highly pathogenic avian influenza alert

In 2015, HPAI was found in the wildfowl population in the United States, representing a risk for poultry owners. At this time no cases have been found in North Carolina.

Poultry owners are encouraged, however, to watch their birds for any signs of illness and to contact a veterinarian if they find sick birds.

Growers can also contact one of four NCDA&CS regional veterinary diagnostic labs for more information. Go to www.ncagr.gov/vet/ncvdl/VetLabFacilitiesDirectory.html for contact information.

As this disease can spread by infected wildfowl, it is important to eliminate opportunities for your birds to come in contact with wild birds.

Owners are also urged to be extra mindful of biosecurity measures to prevent the spread of this disease.

This includes quarantining any new poultry additions from your existing flock for two to three weeks to observe for signs of sickness, have a dedicated pair of shoes and clothing for working with birds that stay on your property, be mindful if driving onto property with poultry as the disease can spread by vehicles. More information about HPAI can be found at www.ncagr.gov/avianflu.

N.C. livestock promoted with new ear tag program

The N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services has launched a tag program to promote livestock born and raised in North Carolina.

The new Got to Be NC tag program uses special ear tags to identify N.C.-born-and-bred cattle, swine, sheep and goats. The voluntary program is a collaboration between the department's Got to Be NC marketing program, Livestock Marketing Section and Veterinary Division.

"Livestock production generates over $3.6 billion in farm income in North Carolina," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "We developed the Got to Be NC tag program to better promote the high-quality livestock raised in our state."

To qualify for the program, ranchers must be North Carolina residents, and participating animals must be conceived and born in the state. Participating livestock must be identified with an official Got to Be NC tag purchased by the producer before they are sold. The tags cost $5 apiece. Ranchers must complete a producer tag record and submit it to the department after tagging their animals.

In addition to promoting livestock, the tags also will help producers comply with state and federal laws governing interstate transportation of animals.

Changes to N.C. State Fair livestock competitions

The new tag program will affect the current N.C. Born and Bred competitions at the N.C. State Fair and N.C. Mountain State Fair. N.C. Born and Bred champions are chosen in competitions for market cattle, swine, sheep and goats. Starting in 2016, the winning animals will be known as Got to Be NC champions.

To qualify for the Got to Be NC competitions, producers who have traditionally sold their animals as N.C. born and bred during the fair will need to participate in the new tag program.

Ear tag order forms, membership applications and more information are available at www.ncagr.gov/markets/livestock/NCtags.htm. Additional questions should be directed to the NCDA&CS Livestock Marketing Section at 919-707-3151.

Starting this year, there will now be Got to Be NC competitions for livestock at the N.C. State Fair and the N.C. Mountain State Fair. These competitions were previously referred to as the N.C. Born and Bred competitions. Animals competing in these shows will have the Got to Be NC ear tags. Pictured is last year's N.C. Born and Bred Market Steer shown by Mason Blinson of Buies Creek.

NCDA&CS offers topsoil and soil fertility tips for spring

Don't play the guessing game with your garden vegetables or yard for the upcoming growing season. Soil testing for your spring plantings and yard maintenance gives you the information needed to maximize your efforts and boost garden yields.

The N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services' Agronomic Services Division encourages home and community gardeners and landscapers to submit soil samples during the non-busy season for faster turnaround times and with no peak-season fees. Soil samples will be analyzed free from April 1 until mid-November. For home gardens, early spring through early fall is an ideal time to submit samples for soil testing.

"Whether maintaining an existing lawn or landscaped area or planning a new garden, soil testing can help optimize growing conditions with recommendations for correct amounts of lime and fertilizer" said Jagathi Kamalakanthan, agronomist with the NCDA&CS soil testing lab.

With greater interest in home, urban and community gardens, there is an increased use of topsoil bought in bags or in bulk from garden centers to fill raised beds, she said.

"There are no regulations on what can be sold as topsoil, making soil testing a valuable tool in determining the actual fertility of these products," Kamalakanthan said. "It is important to remember that low fertility can cause nutrient deficiencies, while too much fertility can be harmful to plants depending on what nutrients are too high."

Some nutrients can be toxic to plants, and excessive nutrients, such as phosphorus, may be harmful to the environment if it moves to surface waters.

It is always a good idea to test topsoil before using it, whether it is native or newly acquired for a raised bed. If adding to existing soil, Kamalakanthan recommends thoroughly mixing topsoil well with the native soil to minimize drainage issues that may exist by layering one type of soil on top of another.

More information on topsoil

"Customers had no problem finding and using this option once we launched it. It is designed to be intuitive and similar to other sites where people shop online."

To get started, customers will need to set up an account in PALS and create a password. Their username will be their email address.

For payment, customers go into their account to look at the agronomic service items in their account, said Jeff Vitalis, an information technology specialist who worked on the PayNow project. If any have a "payment pending status," a green PayNow link will show up on the item line. Customers select which report they want to pay for, click on the PayNow link and they will be transferred to a secure credit card payment site to enter information for payment.

A confirmation email will be sent to the customer verifying the payment, and the report or reports paid for are immediately released for the customer to view, Vitalis said.

Customers who still wish to send checks and have an escrow account can do so, Hudak-Wise said.

Soil testing has traditionally been a free service of the department, but now it is free part of the year, but not the whole year.

Because of the large volume of soil samples that came in during the winter months, the lab implemented a $4 per sample peak-season fee to encourage customers to get samples in earlier or wait until after the rush of commercial growers. Spreading the incoming samples out over a longer period helps improve turnaround time, ensuring farmers get their results in a timely manner to prepare for the growing season.

The peak-season fee period ended March 31, in time for home gardeners to get their samples in for backyard gardens and lawns.

Agronomic testing services such as soil and tissue testing gives users science-based recommendations to optimize growing conditions.

"That eliminates a lot of guesswork when it comes to deciding what nutrients to add for growth, which is better for a grower's bottom line and helps to safeguard the environment from over-application of nutrients," Hudak-Wise said.
