Fall and winter commodities part of year-round farmers markets offerings

Activity at farmers markets slows some in the fall and winter, but don't forget that you can find such fall and winter commodities as root vegetables, greens, apples, pumpkins, Christmas trees and firewood at year-round markets across the state.

The State Farmers Market in Raleigh has several fall/early winter events planned. Mark your calendars and save the dates.

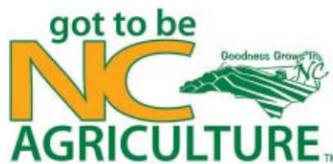

Nov. 11-13 Fall Craft Fair

Nov. 18 Colossal Collard Day

Dec. 1-31 Month of Giving

Dec. 2 Pecan Day

Dec. 10 WPTF Weekend Gardener Show and Market Shoppes Open House

'Nothing Could Be Finer' than the N.C. State Fair Oct. 13-23 in Raleigh

New discounts, new entertainment, new competitions – the 2016 N.C. State Fair has it all, Oct. 13-23 at the State Fairgrounds.

Discounts

The new Daredevil Package includes two adult admission tickets and six ride sheets (108 ride tickets total) for $72, offering a savings of $56 off gate admission and $4 off advance price. Daredevil Packages are available online only until Oct. 13 at 11:59 p.m. as a print-at-home ticket.

Choral competition

Twenty local middle and high school choirs will sing in the N.C. State Fair's first Choral Competition, which will take place Thursday, Oct. 13. The middle school division will compete from 4-6 p.m., and the high school division will compete from 7-9 p.m. Each division's winner receives $1,000, and all participating choirs will be awarded at least $100. The competition is a concert event in Dorton Arena and is free to all fairgoers.

Grounds entertainment

Seven new acts, including acrobats, human puppets and trained wolves, are coming this year:

The Red Trousers Show's star acrobats, David Graham and Tobin Renwick, balance on each other's heads, juggle flaming batons and more.

Pirates of the Colombian Caribbean features a family of performers who will do tricks on the high wire and Wheel of Death while acting out the story of pirates battling over treasure.

Tangled Threads, a stilt-walking puppet master and his human marionette, will interact with fairgoers near the Expo Center.

FireStryker, a prehistoric dragon, will roam Kiddieland with its medieval dragon trainer.

A pair of stilt-walking unicorns from Dream City Stilt-walkers will wander at the Flower and Garden Show area.

The Wolves of the World Show features a pack of trained wolves performing tricks while trainer Sharon Sandlofer educates the audience about the importance of wolves to the ecosystem.

All Star Big Top Circus will present its circus dogs as they perform tricks and even give the audience a doggie fashion show.

NCDA&CS awarded $5.3 million for produce safety efforts

The N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services recently received a five-year, $5.3 million grant from the Food and Drug Administration to enhance produce safety.

The funding will be used to ensure that North Carolina farmers and producers are ready to comply with the stricter production and harvest requirements of the federal Food Safety Modernization Act.

"This funding will help our Food and Drug Protection Division support farmers and producers in getting their businesses ready to meet these new requirements," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "I am a firm believer in educating before regulating, and this funding will support training opportunities, on-farm readiness reviews and other education and outreach opportunities. This funding allows us to develop our inspection programs to meet the specific growing and harvesting needs of the farmers in our state."

The funding will also support infrastructure development at agricultural research stations across the state for training and outreach. Funds are targeted to upgrade classrooms and provide hands-on indoor and outdoor demonstration areas. The goal is to provide training in best practices, from planting to post-harvest. These include demonstrations of growing, harvesting, packing and holding. (See Produce safety, pg. 8)

This month's celebration of the 149th edition of the N.C. State Fair serves as a reminder of how much agriculture has changed through the years. The first fair was only four days long and was designed to showcase agricultural advances and allow farmers to share information on production practices with one another.

While the State Fair is still a showcase for agricultural excellence, today's broader agricultural mission focuses on helping the non-farming public understand where their food comes from.

What has remained unchanged though the years is ag's significant influence on our economy.

Agriculture and agribusiness remains our No. 1 industry at $84 billion. I believe it will soon be a $100 billion industry as we look at ways to recruit and encourage the development of food manufacturing business in our state and grow agricultural opportunities along with it.

In September, I visited Blue Ridge Food Ventures on the campus of A-B Tech in Enka. This shared-use commercial kitchen and natural products facility officially opened in 2004, serving entrepreneurs in Western N.C.

In the 12 years since its opening, the facility has added more equipment and more packing capabilities, and continues to help food entrepreneurs, caterers, food truck operators and natural products producer take their ideas from concept to reality.

It is an impressive facility in its scope, mission and equipment capabilities. It accommodates small producers and larger ones. The perfect example of that range is the mixers they have, ranging in size from 5 quarts up to 60 quarts.

Other notable equipment includes apple peeler/slicer, dehydrators, juicer-pulper, grinders and mills, steam kettles, commercial ranges and ovens, a grill, tilt skillet, auger filler for dry products, vacuum sealer, label applicator, batch code printer, and walk in coolers and freezers.

BRFV also offers co-packing services to businesses that may have the product idea, but not the time to pack, or to established businesses that may need to ramp up production.

The beauty of a facility such as this, is that it lets people start producing a product without initially having to invest in buying expensive commercial

BeeCheck maps hives, protects pollinators

Recent reports of mosquito spraying for Zika virus and other mosquito-borne diseases in other states have led to many N.C. residents asking what can they do to protect commercial and hobby beehives across the state. The N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services encourages bee owners to use the BeeCheck mapping software to alert farmers and pesticide applicators to the location of their hives.

"We have spent the past several months educating beekeepers and pesticide applicators about the program," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "Since the program launched five months ago, 533 producers and more than 700 beekeepers have registered."

"This is a voluntary, non-regulatory and free program," Troxler said. "We are excited to see sign-up for the program has outpaced other states that have had the program a lot longer than us."

Growers, beekeepers and pesticide users can access DriftWatch and BeeCheck at www.ncagr.gov/pollinators. The website offers detailed instructions on how to sign up and use the mapping tools. Using BeeCheck, beekeepers map their hives using pins and half-acre circles and can choose details of hive information to display on the map. Producers of high-value specialty crops, such as tomatoes, tobacco, fruit trees, grapes and vegetables, can map their sites and provide contact information about their operation on DriftWatch.

Beekeepers can also register their apiaries with the NCDA&CS Plant Industry Division if they would like to be notified of any aerial spraying within a mile of their apiary. The registration form is located on the apiary link on the division's website. There is a $10 registration fee per site for this notification.

The NCDA&CS Structural Pest Control and Pesticides Division registers pesticides and licenses pesticide applicators. The department is not responsible for spraying for mosquitoes. The N.C. Department of Health and Human Services' Division of Public Health is responsible for detecting, tracking and responding to mosquito-borne diseases. Homeowners and municipalities may also choose to use a licensed pesticide applicator to treat for mosquitoes.

For more information about NCDA&CS pollinator efforts, visit www.ncagr.gov/pollinators.

Winners named in 'Dig into Local' contest

Five N.C. restaurants from Albemarle, Charlotte, Raleigh and Winston-Salem were recently recognized for featuring locally grown, raised, caught and made products during the "Dig Into Local Best Menu NC" contest.

"This contest is about more than simply identifying a menu item as 'local'," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "The 'Dig Into Local Best Menu NC' contest asked chefs to be more specific about where they source ingredients, and expand those options across their menus."

Menus were judged for clearly identifying N.C. agricultural products, farms and manufacturers; highlighting seasonal produce; identifying items with unique regional connections; offering N.C. wine, beer and spirit selections on the menu; including multiple courses featuring N.C. ingredients; and offering a good balance of N.C. products across protein, grain and produce categories.

Five restaurants were recognized for having outstanding menus based on the above criteria. Each restaurant will receive an award to display. Following is a list of winning restaurants and chefs:

- Bonterra, Chef Blake Hartwick (Charlotte)
- Graze, Chef Richard Miller (Winston-Salem)
- Heirloom, Chef Clark Barlowe (Charlotte)

-- Off the Square, Chef Justin Mauldin (Albemarle)

-- Sitti, Chef Donaldo Guzman (Raleigh)

The Dig Into Local Best Menu NC contest, sponsored by the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, is one of many promotional activities of the department's Marketing Division. The division also manages the Got To Be NC and Savor NC branding programs, hosts trade shows and workshops for food businesses, and sponsors the popular Got To Be NC Competition Dining Series. More information about marketing programs is available at www.gottobeNC.com.

Rides at the N.C. State Fair put on a brilliant display at night. are joining the entertainment lineup at the 2016 N.C. State Fair:

The Cutest Show on Earth is a theater experience for kids, who will be given costumes and guided to use their creativity to produce a one-of-a-kind show.

Agriculture magic show The Magic Bean will get kids thinking about where their food comes from through an act that incorporates magic tricks, skits and audience participation.

Acclaimed cartoonist Guy Gilchrist will entertain kids with drawing demonstrations and guitar playing near Field of Dreams.

Rides

The N.C. State Fairgrounds will premiere its first permanent ride at the 2016 fair. The State Fair Flyer will transport fairgoers across the Midway, providing an aerial view of the grounds. The ride, which is similar to a ski lift, is more than 40 feet high at its peak. It has endpoints at the west end of the Scott Building and near Gate 8. A one-way trip transports riders 1,400 feet across the fairgrounds and lasts seven minutes. Cost is $5 for a one-way ride or $8 for a round trip.

Merchandise

The fair will introduce its own line of official N.C. State Fair merchandise at The Nest. The Nest will be in the lobby of the Exposition Center and will be open daily during the fair. It will feature T-shirts, sweatshirts, hats, coffee mugs, pint glasses, limited edition Christmas ornaments and more.

Get tickets

Advance tickets for the State Fair are on sale at www.ncstatefair.org and at Food Lion stores. Advance admission tickets are $8 for ages 13-64 and $3 for ages 6 to 12, compared to $10 for adults and $5 for kids at the gate. Go online to www.ncstatefair.org for more information.

The 3rd annual Garlic Fest will be held Oct. 1 from noon to 6 p.m. at Southslope in Asheville. The event, sponsored by Sow True Seeds, features garlic tastings including unique and creative garlic dishes, classes and tips for growing garlic. For more information, go to www.wncgarlicfest.com or call 828-254-0708.

The Union County Cattlemen's Association will hold its fall replacement sale Oct. 29 at the Union County Livestock Market in Monroe. The sale features quality heifers, cows and bulls. Preview starts at 9 a.m. with sale beginning at noon. Lunch is provided before the sale. For more information, contact Farrah Hargett at 704-242-0270 or Farrah.hargett@uccattlemen.com

The Southeastern Animal Fiber Fair will be held Oct. 30-Nov. 1 at the Western N.C. Ag Center in Fletcher. The event features fleece shows, fiber sales, classes, demonstrations, fiber arts competition, vendors and a silent auction. Adult admission is $5 a day or $10 for a three-day pass. Kids under 13 years old are admitted free. For more information, go to www.saffsite.org

As a way to help farmers and agricultural workers stay safe at work, the N.C. Department of Labor offers safety videos on a variety of topics through its YouTube channel. Video topics include: preventing green tobacco sickness, hazard communication, tobacco harvester safety, heat stress, migrant housing requirements, forklift safety, and information about the NCDOL's Gold Star Growers program. The videos are in English and Spanish to increase understanding of safety hazards and preventing accidents. To learn more about the NCDOL and the Agricultural Safety and Health Bureau, go to www.nclabor.com or call 1-800-NC-LABOR (800-625-2267). NCDOL is also on Facebook and Twitter (@NCDOL).

Beekeepers with bees for rent and growers interested in bee pollination services can post their information on the BeeLinked website at www.ncagr.com/beelinked. The site is hosted by the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services and the N.C. State University Apiculture Program. Anyone interested in listing their information can do so by filling out an online Submit Your Ad form on the BeeLinked page or by contacting NCDA&CS at 919-233-8214 or by email at NCHoneybee@ncagr.gov or call NCSU at 919-515-1660. The NCDA&CS Plant Industry Division regulates the movement of agricultural or related items capable of spreading harmful insects, diseases, and other pests. Beekeepers participating in this program will be required to comply with all honey and bee industry regulations.

The N.C. Ag Finance Authority provides credit to agriculture in areas where financing is not available at reasonable rates and terms. The agency originates, services and finances farm loans, rural business loans, disaster loans and cotton gin loans. It also offers tax-exempt ag development bonds for agribusiness processing, ag-related manufacturing or ag waste disposal. For more about Ag Finance Authority programs or to request a loan application, call 919-790-3949 or email at RequestLoanInfo@ncagr.gov.

HH Architecture to design new Agricultural Sciences Center

HH Architecture of Raleigh has been selected to design the new Agricultural Sciences Center for the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler announced.

The laboratory complex will be built with $94 million in funding from the Connect NC bonds that voters approved in March. It is the first of the bond-funded projects to have its designer approved by the State Building Commission.

The Agricultural Sciences Center will contain offices and labs that perform tests for four of the department's divisions: Food and Drug Protection, Standards, Structural Pest Control and Pesticides, and Veterinary. The building will replace four labs whose average age is more than 40 years.

"The services provided by these labs is important to our citizens, our farms and our businesses," Troxler said. "Locating them together in a new and modern, central facility will enable us to be more effective and efficient in meeting the needs of a growing state and our $84 billion agriculture industry."

The center is projected to be about 200,000 square feet in size and will include labs and office space for about 200 department employees.

It will be located on state land near the intersection of Reedy Creek and Edwards Mill roads in Raleigh.

Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler, right, discusses ideas about the Agricultural Sciences Center with N.C. Farm Bureau President Larry Wooten, center, Joe Reardon, an NCDA&CS assistant commissioner, and HH Architecture owner Kristen Hess at a recent press conference. The center is being funded by $94 million in Connect NC bonds, and will house lab functions for four of the department's divisions.

It is projected to be completed by late 2020.

About HH Architecture

The full-service design firm has 16 employees; and is owned by Kristen Hess.

Founded in 2005, the company has worked on a range of design projects, including master planning, renovations and new construction.

Past projects include the Gov. James Martin Building at the State Fairgrounds, the Dairy Museum renovation at N.C. State University, the U.S. Forest Service's Southern Research Station in RTP, Orange County's Environmental and Agricultural Center, the Maxwell Regional Agricultural and Convention Center in Wayne County, and the Agri-Civic Center in Anson County.

Winning pork and egg recipes from the N.C. Mountain State Fair contests

Susie Zuerner of Arden placed first in the N.C. Mountain State Fair's pork and egg cooking contests.

Zuerner's Cheesy Pork Burgers won over the judges in the N.C. Pork Council sponsored cooking contest. The first-place finish earned her a blue ribbon and $200. She also impressed the judges in the N.C. Egg Association's Incredible Eggs! Go International contest. Zuerner earned another blue ribbon and $200 for her Thai-inspired recipe, Khai Yat Sai.

In the pork contest, Sharon Gates of Leicester earned $150 for her second-place Bacon Chocolate Chip Blondies. Justin Pegg of Asheville took third-place honors and earned $100 for his Southwestern Spicy Pork Soup.

In the egg contest, Sharon

Gates had another second-place finish with her Presto Pesto Italian Quiche. The dish earned her $150. In third place, Nate Worley of Leicester earned $100 for his Middle Eastern recipe, Succulent Israeli Shakshuka.

Following are the first-place pork and egg recipes:

Cheesy Pork Burgers

- 1 1/2 pounds ground pork
- 3 ounces shredded mozzarella cheese
- 4 tablespoons minced sweet onion
- 1/2 cup ricotta cheese
- 5 large cloves garlic, minced
- 4 tablespoons apricot preserves, divided
- 6 slices mozzarella cheese
- 6 burger buns
- 4-6 lettuce leaves
- 5 tablespoons butter
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Combine pork with shredded mozzarella, onion, ricotta, garlic and half of the apricot preserves. Form mixture into six patties, and salt and pepper to taste. On very hot grill, cook burgers for about 4 minutes per side. With 1 minute left to cook, top each patty with 1 teaspoon of the preserves and a slice of mozzarella. Finish cooking until internal temperature is 160 degrees. Spread butter on buns and toast. Top burger with lettuce and serve.

Khai Yat Sai

- 6 eggs, beaten with salt and white pepper

- 1 box of prepared rice
- 8 ounces, minced pork
- 3 strips bacon
- 1 onion, chopped
- 2 tomatoes, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, chopped
- 1 small pepper, chopped
- 2 tablespoons tomato sauce
- 1/2 cup corn
- 1/2 cup spinach
- 1/2 cup peas
- 1/2 cup green beans
- Soy sauce
- Salt
- White Pepper

1 cup mozzarella cheese
In wok or other large cooking dish, cook eggs until done. Remove eggs and place in a medium bowl. Prepare rice as directed on packaging. Set rice aside. In skillet, add next 11 ingredients and cook until pork is done. Add dash of soy sauce, and salt and pepper to taste. Once all ingredients are cooked, stir in cheese. Pour mixture into egg bowl. Next, invert bowl and contents onto plate. Add rice to plate and serve.

Poultry & Supplies For Sale

Highly pathogenic avian influenza alert

In 2015, HPAI was found in the wildfowl population in the United States, representing a risk for poultry owners. At this time no cases have been found in North Carolina.

Poultry owners are encouraged, however, to watch their birds for any signs of illness and to contact a veterinarian if they find sick birds.

Growers can also contact one of four NCD&CS regional veterinary diagnostic labs for more information. Go to www.ncagr.gov/vet/ncvdl/VetLabFacilitiesDirectory.html for contact information.

As this disease can spread by infected wildfowl, it is important to eliminate opportunities for your birds to come in contact with wild birds.

Owners are also urged to be extra mindful of biosecurity measures to prevent the spread of this disease.

This includes quarantining any new poultry additions from your existing flock for two to three weeks to observe for signs of sickness, have a dedicated pair of shoes and clothing for working with birds that stay on your property, be mindful if driving onto property with poultry as the disease can spread by vehicles. More information about HPAI can be found at www.ncagr.gov/avianflu.

Three Waynesville residents honored at Mountain State Fair

Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler inducted three Waynesville residents, Bill and Patty Cochran and Bill Yarborough, into the Mountain State Fair Livestock Hall of Fame,

"This year's inductees are strong supporters of agriculture in Western North Carolina, the Mountain State Fair and other fairs in the region." Troxler said. "Thanks to their continual support, young people have the opportunity to learn more about agriculture in their community and learn valuable life skills by showing animals at the Mountain State Fair and other events."

The Cochrans run a dairy and swine operation in Haywood County. They were recognized for their support of the livestock shows at the fair, and support of FFA and 4-H. The Cochrans have a long history of showing animals in the livestock shows. In the past, the couple also has provided a cow for the milking booth during the fair's 10-day run, and provided swine for the swine shows.

Bill Yarborough was recognized for his support of the Mountain State Fair through his work at the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services. Yarborough oversaw multiple improvement projects at the WNC Agricultural Center. He also is a supporter of youth activities in the community, and encourages young people to get involved in the fair.

The N.C. Mountain State Fair Livestock Hall of Fame was created by livestock show staff to recognize individual contributions to the livestock industry in Western North Carolina. The 2016 N.C. Mountain State Fair took place Sept. 9-18 at the WNC Agricultural Center in Fletcher.

ADFP Trust Fund awards more than $3.8 million for projects

The N.C. Agricultural Development and Farmland Preservation Trust Fund recently awarded more than $3.87 million to help communities across the state protect farmland and promote agricultural enterprises. More than $2 million went towards obtaining conservation easements on lands that border military bases in Hyde and Bertie counties. This money was set aside by the General Assembly to maintain working lands as buffer zones around military bases.

"I am excited that we have been able to assist with the funding of easements on more than 2,500 acres of farmland across our state," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "These easements take the development pressure off of these families and help maintain their status as working lands for generations to come."

-- The N.C. Forestry Association received $30,000 to aid in the development of the Working Lands Trust as an operating land trust through outreach and education.

-- The Franklin County Cooperative Extension Service received $20,000 for a feasibility study to determine the need and location for a multipurpose facility and farmers market in Franklin County.

-- Orange County received $32,500 for the Client Requested Operations Purchase (CROP) Fund, providing short-term cash flow assistance, allowing them to defer payment on specialized services, installation fees on new equipment, or consulting services during their production season. Clients will then re-pay the fund as their product is sold after production season.

-- Carolina Farm Stewardship received $7,420 to purchase biosecurity supplies for 35 farmers, increasing their ability to offer safe agritourism events and provide biosecurity education to consumers, neighboring farmers and regional partners.

-- The Mitchell Soil and Water Conservation District received $109,730 to assist with the purchase of a 20-year easement on 125 acres in Mitchell County

-- Southern Appalachian was granted $157,500 for the purchase of a perpetual conservation easement on 115 acres in Buncombe County

-- The Catawba Lands Conservancy was granted $89,700 to assist with the purchase of a perpetual conservation easement on 103 acres in Lincoln County.

-- The Piedmont Lands Conservancy was granted $476,416 to assist with the purchase of a perpetual conservation easement on 344 acres in Caswell County.

-- The Sandhills Area Land Trust was granted $44,786 to assist with the purchase of a perpetual conservation easement on 57 acres in Scotland County.

-- The Southwestern NC RC&D was granted $213,719 to assist with the purchase of a perpetual conservation easement on 50 acres in Haywood County.

-- The Haywood County Soil and Water Conservation District received two grants: $173,000 to assist with the purchase of a perpetual conservation easement on 46 acres and $78,277 to assist with the purchase of a perpetual conservation easement on 21 acres, both in Haywood County.

-- The Foothills Conservancy was granted $278,000 to assist with the purchase of a perpetual conservation easement on 180 acres in Cleveland County.

-- The LandTrust for Central North Carolina received $71,500 to assist with the purchase of a perpetual conservation easement on 72 acres in Randolph County.

-- The Triangle Land Conservancy was awarded $18,500 to assist with the purchase of a perpetual conservation easement on 53 acres in Johnston County.

-- The Working Lands Trust received four grants totaling over $2.07 million to assist with the purchase of perpetual conservation easements on farms near military installations in Hyde and Bertie counties. The trust received $859,406 to assist in purchasing an easement on 462 acres and $857,888 to assist in purchasing a perpetual easement on 386 acres in Hyde County. The trust also received $186,890 to protect 186 acres and $166,800 to assist in purchasing a perpetual easement on 213 acres in Bertie County.

equipment. This allows a small business to grow in a sustainable way, building business and developing a customer base. When they have an established foundation, they can go out on their own when it makes sense to do so. Food entrepreneurs rent work space by the hour and can even rent storage space for their product.

Blue Ridge Food Ventures is not the only shared-use facility in the state. Others exist in about every region of our state, offering similar opportunities to food entrepreneurs. I hope to visit more of them in the future.

We have tremendous agricultural resources in this state, perfect for turning into food and natural products. Focusing efforts on attracting and growing food manufacturers here just makes good business sense to me, and I am excited that as a state we are working to accomplish this.

I hope the efforts we invest in today help transform agriculture into the $100 billion industry I know it can be.

ing produce.

The division will also partner with N.C. State University for on-farm readiness reviews. These two-day reviews will utilize NCSU produce specialists, as well as NCDA&CS staff, and provide direct feedback to farmers on produce safety implementation efforts.

FDA awarded a total of $21.8 million to 42 states to help implement FSMA's produce safety rule. The rule, which the FDA finalized in November of 2015, establishes science-based minimum standards for the safe growing, harvesting, packing and holding of fruits and vegetables grown for human consumption.

The NCDA&CS Food and Drug Protection Division protects the health, welfare and economic interests of consumers of foods, drugs, livestock feeds, fertilizers and medical devices by ensuring, through inspections and analysis, that these products are wholesome and properly labeled.
