Southern pine beetle trapping started

With last year's active southern pine beetle outbreaks across the southeastern U.S., it is increasingly important to forecast if the "most destructive pest in the South" will again rear it's ugly head. One of the ways to predict this is through Southern pine beetle trapping, which the N.C. Forest Service does each year. Traps have already gone out across most of the state.

The Southern pine beetle is considered the worst of the worst when it comes to forest insects. During attack, pine needles fade from green to yellow to red, then dead. When an outbreak occurs, the beetles attack tree after tree, causing large patches of dead pines, called "spots." In the past several years, the Southern pine beetle has caused an estimated $1.5 billion in damages [Forest Health Technology Enterprise Team report 2014].

Southern pine beetle outbreaks typically occur in a given region every 6-15 years. At other times, beetle populations are at low levels and are barely

Got to Be NC Festival gearing up for May 18-20

The 2018 Got to Be NC Festival is right around the corner and organizers are looking for the best of North Carolina to participate. Farm-equipment hobbyists and musicians can apply at gottobencfestival.com. The Got to Be NC Festival will be held at the N.C. State Fairgrounds in Raleigh, May 18-20.

The annual event features food, wine and beer from across North Carolina, farm animals, music, rides and games, and one of the largest displays of antique tractors and farm equipment in the Southeast.

The festival is looking for tractor collectors and clubs who want to be part of the event, in-

May 26 is deadline to file claim in tobacco settlement case

Under a proposed $24 million class-action settlement agreement in Speaks v. U.S. Tobacco Cooperative, Inc., current and former tobacco farmers who were members of the U.S. Tobacco Cooperative, formerly known as Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation, or their heirs or representatives may be eligible for payouts.

The order from the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina has been appealed, but any claims would still need to be filed by May 26, 2018 to be eligible. If you do not file a claim, you will not get any payment from the settlement.

The class includes all individuals, proprietorships, partnerships, corporations and other entities that are or were shareholders and/or members of U.S. Tobacco at any time since the date of U.S. Tobacco's incorporation on June 1, 1946, including any heirs, representatives, executors, powers-of-attorney, successors, assigns or others acting on their behalf.

Tobacco growers who were or are members of the U.S. Tobacco Cooperative, or their heirs or representatives must file a claim online or by mail. Claim forms can be found online at https://fluecuredtobaccosettlement. com or by downloading a claim form from that website and submitting the completed form to:

Settlement Claims Administrator -5773 PO Box 2612 Fairbault, MN 55021-9612

There are two types of claims that may be filed, Group 1 and Group 2.

Group 1 claims will be based on total pounds of tobacco that a class member sold between June 1, 1946 and Sept. 13, 2017. Payments in this group would be capped at $15,000. About 75 percent of the settlement funds are expected be paid to Group 1 claims.

Group 2 claims will be based on the total number of crop years in which a class member sold tobacco between June 1, 1946 and Sept. 13, 2017, with

Commissioner Troxler

Ok folks, if you haven't filled out your Census of Agriculture yet, it's time!

Actually, it's past time, but the U.S. Department of Agriculture has extended the deadline through spring to give farmers and ranchers more time to be sure it gets the best possible information available.

So it is vitally important that you do your part. As of press

by Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler time, North Carolina has had about a 40 percent response rate to the Census. I know we can do better than that and I am hopeful by the end of spring we will be closer to the target goal of 80 percent that USDA would like to see.

It is difficult to make a strong case for good agricultural policies when you do not have the numbers to back it up. Imagine if you were applying for a loan, but your banker only considered 40 percent of your income. You would want every possible consideration in the process. To ensure the best snapshot of what North Carolina agriculture looks like today, the Census needs to hear from you.

Online forms have been improved since the last Census to ease navigation and reduce time clicking through unnecessary pages. Don't delay any longer. Go online at www.agcensus.usda.gov and fill yours out today.

I talk a lot in this column and when I give speeches about the importance of buying local and supporting North Carolina farmers. I believe we can bring about change with our shopping dollars. At the very least, buying a local product makes a difference for that particular business.

An employee was recently telling me about a campaign going around on Facebook where people were being encouraged to buy an extra gallon of milk at the grocery store to try to help boost demand for milk. Some even suggested donating the extra gallon to a food pantry or homeless shelter if you couldn't use an extra gallon yourself.

I appreciated people taking to Facebook and trying to make a change for an industry that clocks in 365 days a year to produce a product that has been a staple for generations.

Like many agricultural commodities, North Carolina's dairy industry is struggling with low commodity prices.

Growing up, I believe we had a glass of milk at just about every meal. That seems to be far from the norm now, which has led to an excess supply of milk.

A one-time purchase is likely more symbolic than a long-term market changer, but I know dairy producers in North Carolina would appreciate your support, and hopefully drinking a little more milk will help bring the supply more into balance.

So, I encourage you to drink your milk!

noticeable. There has not been a Southern pine beetle outbreak in North Carolina since the early 2000s, but that may come to an end soon if last year was any indication of what is to come.

In the meantime, landowners and forest managers are encouraged to stay vigilant and reduce stand susceptibility to southern pine beetle by maintaining good stocking levels. Overstocked pine stands are more susceptible to beetle attack. By thinning a stand, one can reduce the likelihood that an outbreak will occur. The Southern Pine Beetle Prevention Program is a cost-share program that aids landowners in thinning pine stands.

cluding a daily parade through the fairgrounds for tractors in working order. Participation is free, but pre-registration is required.

On Saturday, May 19, the festival will host the Carolina Bluegrass Battle. Traditional and contemporary bluegrass bands can register to compete for bragging rights and prizes. The winning band earns $500 in prize money, plus guaranteed paid performances at the 2018 N.C. State Fair and PreddyFest 2018. The second-place band receives $250, and $125 goes to the third-place winner. The competition is open to amateur N.C. bluegrass bands, but is limited to the first eight bands to register.

Registration forms are available at gottobencfestival.com.

NCDA&CS offers cost-share grants for farmers markets advertising

North Carolina farmers markets can expand their advertising budgets through of a new cooperative grant being offered by the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services. As part of the grant, the department will pay half of the total cost of advertising up to $2,500.

"There are more than 250 farmers markets across North Carolina, and many of them are operated by local municipalities and nonprofits," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "We hope these grants will help offset the cost of advertising for local markets, so they can better promote themselves and the farmers they represent."

To qualify, all advertising must take place between March 1 and Dec. 31, 2018. Eligible expenses include advertising on billboards, magazines, newspapers, television, radio and websites. Funds also can be used for promotional items, signage and brochures. Funds cannot be used for expenses related to trade show exhibits, product labels, shipping, mailing labels or postage.

Interested farmers markets should complete a pre-approval form, which is available by contacting NCDA&CS marketing specialist Kevin Hardison at 919-707-3123 or kevin. hardison@ncagr.gov.

The cooperative advertising funds are made possible through a $100,000 grant from the N.C. Tobacco Trust Fund Commission. Funds will be available until all money has been allocated. Contact Hardison for more information.

Ag Export seminar May 24 & 25

■ Registration deadline is April 24

Are you a farmer, agribusiness owner, food or beverage company or commodity representative interested in international trade?

Join the North Carolina Department of Agriculture & Consumer Services as we host the 2018 N.C. Agriculture Export Seminar at the Koury Convention Center at the Sheraton Greensboro Four Seasons Hotel, May 24 and 25. This conference will provide support and education to growers and agribusinesses interested in exporting.

"Ag exports are a significant contributor to our ag economy and will be equally important going forward," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "It is important to remember that 95 percent of the world population lives outside the United States. Farmers and agribusinesses must have access to these global markets because they represent tremendous marketing opportunities, especially as our world population grows."

Seminar topics include export requirements, logistics, finance and trade support. Ambassador Jim Cain, Cain Global Business Partners, will deliver the keynote address. Other speakers include Mike Hubbard, Economic Partnership of North Carolina; Missie Lindsey, Southern United States Trade Association; and Patti LaGuire, Euromonitor. Market briefings on Europe, China and South America/Caribbean are also on the agenda.

Seminar tickets are $100 and registration is open. Deadline to register is Tuesday, April 24.

For questions contact Michelle Wang, international marketing specialist, 919-707-3141.

Troxler announces three promtions at NCDA&CS

Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler recently announced three promotions at the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

Kent Yelverton of Fremont was promoted to manager of the North Carolina State Fair. Yelverton replaces Wesley Wyatt, who retired after 38 years of state service.

Kaleb Rathbone of Waynesville was promoted to director of the Research Stations Division. He replaced Dr. Sandy Stewart who left to work for private industry.

Abraham "Abe" Costa of Clayton was promoted to director of the Information Technology Division, following the retirement of Jane Price.

"I am always pleased to have well-qualified and dedicated staff members step into new leadership roles at the department, and each of these men has shown strong leadership skills and dedication to the department the over the years," Troxler said. "I am confident they will do a good job in their new Yelverton has worked 26 years with NCDA&CS. He began his career in 1992 as a consulting engineer, before successive promotions to facility agricultural engineer, engineering director and director of the Property and Construction Division.

Yelverton earned a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from N.C. State University and is a registered North Carolina professional engineer.

Rathbone began as a summer worker at the Mountain Research Station in 1999. He has served in several different capacities at the station since that time.

Rathbone earned his bachelor's degree in soil science and a master's degree in agriculture and natural resources management from the University of Tennessee.

He has served on the Board of Directors for Carolina Farm Credit since 2012, and is a member of the North Carolina Cattlemen's Association, North Carolina Farm Bureau, Goodness Grows in North Carolina, the Gideon's International, and Research Centers Administrators Society.

Costa has nearly 25 years of state government service, working previously at Coastal Carolina Community College and Fayetteville State University before joining NCDA&CS in 1997 as a computing consultant. Costa has risen through the ranks, as a technology support specialist and a network support specialist before becoming the chief technology officer.

Costa earned an Associate of Applied Science degree in microcomputer systems technology from Coastal Carolina Community College.

He was honored as the NCDA&CS Employee of the Year in 2006, for his leadership of the department's highly successful Combined Campaign.

New water analysis cost-share program available for farmers

The N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services is now accepting applications for its newly launched Water Analysis Cost Share Program. Reimbursement funds will be provided for growers who test their water supply as a part of a pre- and post-harvest food safety program.

"Food safety is critical for any agricultural operation, and safe inputs such as irrigation and wash water should be a part of any farm's food safety program," said Agriculture Commissioner Steve Troxler. "This program will help offset the cost of water testing for farms with existing programs, and also may be an incentive to those without a program to implement one on their farm."

The program, funded from a $92,000 U.S. Department of Agriculture Specialty Crop Block Grant, will assist growers by reimbursing part of the cost associated with testing irrigation and wash water used in packing houses. NCDA&CS will reimburse growers up to $1,000 for laboratory analyses to determine the presence of generic E. coli bacteria in irrigation or wash water by a certified laboratory. Growers can be reimbursed for multiple tests throughout the year.

Grants will be awarded on a first-come, firstserved basis. Interested growers should contact Kevin Hardison at 919-707-3123 or Kevin.Hardison@ncagr.gov. Reimbursement forms and more information are available at www.ncagr.gov/markets/NCgradesvc.

The Catawba Valley Harvest Association will host its annual Harvest Show Jun 9 beginning at 10 a.m. at Sigmon Farm Park, 420 East N. St., Newton. The event features a working wheat harvest with vintage equipment that was common 75 to 100 years ago. The club will show visitors farming history in action. Activities include old-time harvest and farm demonstrations, wagon rides, pony rides and displays of threshing, draft horses, antique tractors, a steam tractor, steam engine, baler, binder, grist mill, Model TT truck and combines. For more information, go to catawbavalleyharvestassociation. com or contact Kim Sigmon at 828-850-5808. The rain date for the event is June 16.

As a way to help farmers and agricultural workers stay safe at work, the N.C. Department of Labor offers safety videos on a variety of topics through its YouTube channel. Video topics include: preventing green tobacco sickness, hazard communication, tobacco harvester safety, heat stress, migrant housing requirements, forklift safety, and information about the NCDOL's Gold Star Growers program. The videos are in English and Spanish to increase understanding of safety hazards and preventing accidents. To learn more about the NCDOL and the Agricultural Safety and Health Bureau, go to www.nclabor.com or call 1-800-NC-LABOR (800-625-2267). NCDOL is also on Facebook and Twitter Beekeepers with bees for rent and growers interested in bee pollination services can post their information on the BeeLinked website at www.ncagr.com/beelinked. The site is hosted by the N.C. Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services and the N.C. State University Apiculture Program. Anyone interested in listing their information can do so by filling out an online Submit Your Ad form on the BeeLinked page or by contacting NCDA&CS at 919-233-8214 or by email at NCHoneybee@ ncagr.gov or call NCSU at 919-515-1660. The NCDA&CS Plant Industry Division regulates the movement of agricultural or related items capable of spreading harmful insects, diseases, and other pests. Beekeepers participating in this program will be required to comply with all honey and bee industry regulations.

The N.C. Ag Finance Authority provides credit to agriculture in areas where financing is not available at reasonable rates and terms. The agency originates, services and finances farm loans, rural business loans, disaster loans and cotton gin loans. It also offers tax-exempt ag development bonds for agribusiness processing, ag-related manufacturing or ag waste disposal. For more about Ag Finance Authority programs or to request a loan application, call 919-790-3949 or email at RequestLoanInfo@
